Avengers: Infinity War

When Thanos goes on a mission to collect all six Infinity Stones in order to use them to cull half of all the living beings from the universe, Thor (Chris Hemsworth), Hulk (Mark Ruffalo) and Dr. Strange (Benedict Cumberbatch) urge Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr.) to put aside what happened before in order to team up with Steve Rogers (Chris Evans) in an effort to keep the stones from Thanos.

Spider-Man (Tom Holland) comes along for the ride, and when the Avengers meet up with Peter Quill (Chris Pratt) and his Guardians of the Galaxy, they realize they're on the same side. Rocket (Bradley Cooper) and an adolescent Groot (Vin Diesel) go off with Thor, while Gamora (Zoe Saldana), Thanos' adopted daughter, tries to stop her father from executing his evil plan.

Bad Samaritan

Sean Falco (Robert Sheehan) and Derek Sandoval (Carlito Olivero) work as valets. They develop a clever scam to burglarize the houses of their wealthy customers. When a car is left with them, Derek stands as a lookout while Sean drives to the owner's house in the car and robs the place. Things go smoothly until he tries to rob Cale Erendreich (David Tennant) and discovers a young woman (Kerry Condon) being held captive in his home.

When Sean runs out of time and has to return the car, he leaves the woman there and brings the car back to Erendreich in order to avoid suspicion, then contacts the police. When they ask what he was doing there, he has to admit to being a burglar. In addition, because the police don't find the woman during their investigation, Sean and Derek are in danger themselves when Erendreich seeks revenge on them as they desperately try to find and rescue the captive woman.

Breaking In

When her father dies, Shaun Russell (Gabrielle Union) drives her two children to spend the weekend at the house she grew up in, before it's sold. The house is large and fancy, with an impenetrable state-of-the-art security system. Or so she thought.

A man breaks in and takes her son and daughter hostage, but when another man attacks Shaun outside the house, she fights him off with astonishing martial arts ability. Once he's down, she runs to the house where she sees her two children are being held by the first man as a screen comes down and covers the window.

Shaun gets a call from him, and he reveals that he's only one of several men who are in the house. He tells her they want something from the house and if she and her kids want to survive, they'd better cooperate. Not willing to give up easily, she disables the lights and disappears from sight. An apparent ninja, she breaks in and starts to hunt down each of the men in an attempt to rescue her kids.

God's Not Dead: A Light in Darkness

A church destroyed. A congregation silenced. A relationship shattered. Yet even in life's darkest valleys, a small flame can light the way toward healing and hope.

After a deadly fire rips through St. James Church, Hadleigh University leaders use the tragedy to push the congregation off campus, forcing the church to defend its rights and bringing together estranged brothers for a reunion that opens old wounds and forces them to address the issues that pulled them apart.

How to Talk to Girls At Parties (OST)

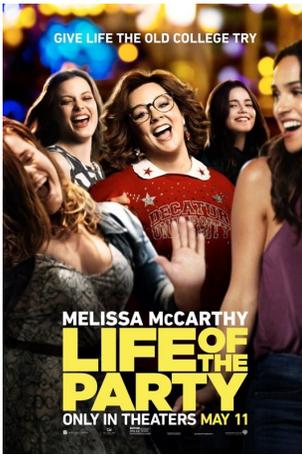

In London in the late 1970s, Enn (Alex Sharp) loves the whole punk scene. When he goes to a party hosted by local punk Queen Boadicea (Nicole Kidman), he finds gorgeous foreign exchange students in attendance. He's instantly attracted to Zan (Elle Fanning).

However, the girls aren't from America – they're aliens from another galaxy, sent to Earth to prepare for a mysterious rite of passage. When the dark secret behind the rite is revealed, Enn turns to Boadicea and her punk followers for help in order to save Zan's life.

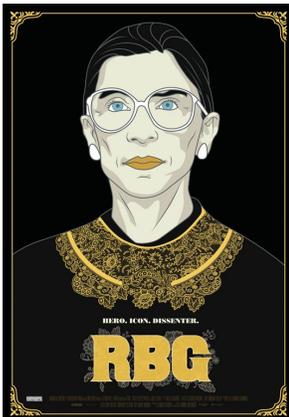

Based on the short story by Neil Gaiman.

Life of The Party

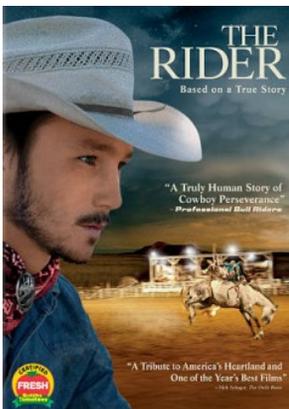

When she's dumped by her husband, longtime dedicated housewife Deanna (Melissa McCarthy) decides to upgrade her skills and enrolls in college, but winds up in the same class as her daughter, who's less than pleased by this latest turn of events.

Nevertheless, Deanna, who has renamed herself Dee Rock, embraces the campus experience, which includes freedom, fun and even frat boys as she finds her true self along the way.

RBG

The unique personal journey of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg has been largely unknown, even to some of her biggest fans - until now. This documentary takes a look at this diminutive, quiet warrior who has developed a breathtaking legal legacy while becoming an unexpected pop culture icon.

Rider

Brady Blackburn (Brady Jandreau) is a gifted young horse trainer and bronc rider whose rodeo career is cut short when he suffers a near fatal fall during a competition, sustaining a major head injury.

Fitted with a steel plate in his head, his doctors advise that he should never ride again. Brady tries to follow that advice, and sells his beloved horse, Gus. Brady's friend, Lane, has also suffered a life-changing accident, with much worse injuries – he has severe brain damage and is permanently paralyzed.
